Call For Papers: Conference on “Population Aging: Implications for Economic Measurement and Performance”

The International Association for Research in Income and Wealth (IARIW) and Hitotsubashi University are organizing an international conference entitled “Population Ageing: Implications for Economic Measurement and Performance” that will take place in Tokyo, Japan March 24-25, 2025. The objective of the conference is to shed light on the implications of population aging for both economic measurement issues and economic performance.

The conference organizers are looking for papers in the field of aging, which covers not only macroeconomics, but also microeconomics, health economics, public economics, economic policy, data science or empirical analysis and the broad field of economic measurement. The program committee is particularly interested in receiving proposals for papers on the following topics:

- Ageing and its Impact on Inflation Dynamics
- Ageing and its Impact on Labor Markets
- Ageing, Digitalization, and Decarbonization
- Ageing, Productivity and Economic Growth
- Impact of Changes in Ageing on the Relative Prices of Various Goods and Services, as well as Industry Structures
- Impact of Changes in Relative Prices of Food, Energy, etc., on Inequality across Age Groups
- Income, Consumption, Wealth, and Health Inequalities among the Elderly
- Measuring Income, Consumption, and Economic Well-Being along with Trends, while Considering Elderly Heterogeneity
- Measuring the Impact of Ageing on Health
- Methods for Measuring the Impact of Ageing on the Cost-of-Living Quantification of Lifetime Welfare

For details on the conference go to. <https://iariw.org/wp-content/uploads/2024/01/IARIW-Conference-on-Aging-Tokyo-Japan-March-2025-January-2.pdf>

Proposals of less than 1,000 words are to be submitted by July 15, 2024, at <https://forms.gle/PDKyx4UFwzFBMkqf7>.

ROIW Special Issue

Selected papers from IARIW special conferences are normally published in special issues of the Review of Income and Wealth (ROIW), edited by a sub-set (one or two persons) of the members of the program committee. To be considered for the special issue, paper givers must submit a revised version of their paper by a specified date after the conference, generally within three months of the conference. All submissions go through the standard ROIW refereeing process.
